

Blue Eyes
By Matthew Arias

The artful blue of her eyes mesmerizes like a portal of endless beauty as an angel that counts every second he can to see her astounding beauty...
They sparkle in the light
They seem oh, so true so loving and graceful
so full of truth...
Staring through these eyes like windows of a path that is endless and happy
An indistinctive feeling that was far from comprehension
It was more than happy...
They blinked with the softness of a feather swaying down
They were two stars that could bring to love anyone even when down Their look was distinguishing the eyes of a queen pure blue with a twist...
The eyes were so keen as I looked straight so lost and perplexed in the eyes that took my soul to rest...
I felt this peace and comfort surrounding my soul with a love so spontaneous and great I couldn't ignore...
Coming back to reality
Coming out of the trance Every moment I await eager for another glance...
